

Córdoba - Argentina

Best dove hunting in the world

Historically, Los Chanares was most known for the unique and convenient 5-minute drives to the field. More recently, however, our reputation for outstanding quality of food and accommodations has been a major attracting factor for our guests.

THE HUNTING

For more than 25 years, seasoned international wing shooters have recognized Cordoba, Argentina as the world's leading destination for high volume dove hunting. There are an estimated 25 million doves in the northern area of Cordoba, providing high quality hunts for thousands of visitors over the years.

Easy arrival — it is very easy to fly to Cordoba with direct flights from either Santiago, Chile or Buenos Aires, Argentina

Perfect weather — the weather is great for hunting with more than 320 sunny days per year and no extreme temperatures

Highest standards — the competition among local lodges has created the highest standard of service of any other hunting lodges in the world

THE LODGE

Our unique game management program and convenient roost location set us apart from the others. We own more than 40 shooting areas, all located less than 15 minutes from the lodge. Our game manager, Martin Carranza, assigns each guest a new setting on every hunt -- from roost hunts to field hunts, or even a competitive hunt with friends. It is guaranteed to be a great experience!

Shooting variety is also a Los Chanares advantage. We've heard time and again how much our guests appreciate the diversification -- some of them come year after year and never shoot in the same spot twice.
